PREFACE

This checklist is an attempt to provide as complete a record as possible of the publications of the government of the North-West Territories, 1876 to 1905, and of the Government of Saskatchewan, 1905 to 1952. Since the issuing of a preliminary mimeographed list in 1948 many additional items have come to light and have been incorporated in this edition. However, the very obvious gaps in departmental bulletin series show that others are still missing. Few government departments have even a satisfactory record of their own publications let alone a complete file of them. Only two or three copies of many of the publications listed are in existence and several have disappeared altogether.

The search for materials appearing in the checklist led to the sources one would expect to explore when embarking on a project of this kind—the Legislative Library collections, departmental files, including those in current use and those stored away in vaults, files of the Queen's Printer, and publication notices in annual reports.

Purposely omitted from the list are maps, posters, items relating only to office routine, office consolidations of acts, and acts printed separately unless accompanied by regulations and similar data, and items put out by crown corporations of purely commercial nature such as bus timetables, price lists, etc. Annual reports of departmental branches or divisions which have appeared only in the annual reports of their departments are listed separately only when such treatment is necessary to show transfers of the branch or division from one department to another and important changes in name.

In listing volumes or numbers of serials, an entry such as 1918/19 indicates a fiscal year whereas 1918-19 would indicate one volume covering a two-year period.

Boards, commissions and bureaus are listed under departments only when they have been permanently assigned to a department by statutory authority.

For generous assistance in tracking down fugitive items the compiler's thanks go to officials of the Saskatchewan government, and in particular to members of the staffs of the Legislative Library, and of the Archives Office and the Library at the University of Saskatchewan. For advice and encouragement I am especially indebted to the Provincial Archivist who was the initiator of the project and who, with the Legislative Librarian, made it possible for me to carry on the work.
